Blow-Off Between Now and Fall Elections Is Forecast.

PRESIDENT IS URGED TO WIELD "BIG STICK"

Refusal of Congress to Heed His Recommendations Becomes Irksome.

WILL FIX THE RESPONSIBILITY

Ship Subsidy and Bonus Legislation Situation Trifles White House.

By Robert J. Bender.

United News Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, June 13.—There is developing a situation between President Harding and Congress that forecasts a blow-off between now and the fall elections.

Officials intimate with the White House declare that the refusal of Congress to heed the President's advice on many legislative subjects is proving increasingly irksome to the executive. To some of these he is quoted as having declared recently that if Congress does not act in accordance with the best thought that is in the executive mind, he will have given subjects recommended by him for congressional action, he will be forced to place the responsibility directly where it belongs and wash his hands of it.

Two problems that have arisen recently have brought the greatest change in the President's attitude toward Congress. It is said—the soldier bonus legislation and his ship subsidy proposals.

As for the ship subsidy legislation, in these dispatches, the President will veto a bonus bill that does not pay its own way, and the present McCumber measure doesn't pay its way.

As for the ship subsidy legislation, the President, his friends declare, will call Congress into extra session if it adjourns without acting on his proposals this year.

Political Dynamite.
Both measures are full of political dynamite. Harding is said to resent what he regards as a deliberate attempt of some Congress leaders to shoulder him with the responsibility for failure of bonus legislation if he vetoes the bill. That he will place the responsibility for this failure where it belongs is the conviction of his friends.

In this connection there is an interesting bit of backstairs maneuvering now going on to force the President to sign the bonus bill. House leaders suggested to some Senators that the Smith-McCumber claim bill be attached as a rider to the bonus bill. Their argument, which proved successful, was this:

Of course the President is aware of these maneuvers—and, it is said, they have only added to his resentment.

RICHMOND DRUG COMPANIES

RUN AFOUL OF DRY STATUTE

Representatives of Hume Drug Store and Staples Pharmacy Arrested by Federal Agents in Series of Raids During Last Two Days.

Two Richmond drug companies ran afoul of the prohibition law yesterday in the series of raids made within the last two days by Federal agents. With the four arrests yesterday, the total number of alleged offenders is brought up to seventeen. Representatives of the J. H. Hume Drug Store, Fourth and Leigh Streets, and Staples Pharmacy, 915 East Main Street, were arrested late yesterday. The raid on Staples Pharmacy was the first in a series of raids on the prohibition law by Federal agents, marking the second day of carefully planned and adroitly executed raids.

J. H. Hume and R. L. Gaylord, of the Hume Drug Company, waived hearing when arraigned before United States Commissioner Melvin Elegenheimer and were released on $1,000 bond each for appearance before the grand jury at the next term of the United States District Court.

Hearing Thursday, June 22.
P. C. Mills and E. R. Brimmer, representing the Staples Pharmacy, will have a hearing before Commissioner Elegenheimer next Thursday morning, June 22, at 10 o'clock.

With the arrest of these four men yesterday, Federal agents have seized seventeen alleged offenders within the last two days. Thirteen alleged retailers of whiskey, in several instances old offenders, were taken in the raids conducted Monday. These simultaneous raids netted officers a quantity of small lots of whiskey. When arraigned before Commissioner Elegenheimer

From Iowa Pastures to Paris Grills in 11 Days

[By Associated Press.]

CHICAGO, June 13.—Steers which grazed in Iowa pastures June 1 were served as steaks in Paris grills today.

When the Mauretania liner Mauretania docked at Cherbourg yesterday after a record voyage of 5 days, 8 hours and 10 minutes, she unloaded beef which left Chicago June 4. The total running time between Chicago and the European Continent was 7 days 5 hours and 40 minutes.

The same Chicago packing company which made the rush shipment to Europe sent provisions on the main voyage of the White Star liner Mauretania, which reached Southampton two weeks ago after a run of 7 days, 11 hours and 56 minutes.

Shipment time between Chicago and Europe ordinarily is twenty days.

ELECTION MARKED BY GREAT APATHY

Not More Than 1,200 Votes Cast in Balloting for Councilmen.

THIRD CLAY IN LEAD

Sixty Are Registered at This Precinct—Canvassing to Be Made Tomorrow.

Unofficial returns from the various precincts of the city show that about 1,200 votes were cast at the general election for Councilmen and Aldermen yesterday. This is about one-tenth of the votes cast at the April primary. The totals received last night unofficially, with several precincts missing, give the net result of 947. With missing returns this will probably reach 1,200 when counted by the election commission tomorrow in the office of the clerk of the Hustings Court. Walter Christman is clerk of this body, and Andrew Krouse is chairman. The commissioners will meet at 10 o'clock. Election certificates will be issued immediately after the official vote is canvassed.

Appeal Has Little Effect.

The appeal of City Chairman John M. Purcell had little effect. Interest appeared more manifest in Clay Ward, where the vote, with two precincts missing, was 305. Madison Ward cast the lowest vote, the total with one precinct missing being 167. Apathy was not so strong in Jefferson, where the complete unofficial vote was 254. Lee Ward, with one precinct omitted, gave a total of 221.

The largest precinct vote was cast in Third Clay, where sixty votes were counted, with Fourth Clay but one vote behind. The smallest vote was in Sixth Lee, where but eight votes were counted. This was a fair percentage here, however, for the highest vote cast at the primary was nineteen. The vote at Third Clay in the primary was 315, and the Fourth Clay, 424. The average precinct vote in Jefferson was thirty-two; in Madison, eighteen; in Clay, thirty-four, and in Lee, twenty-two.

List of Candidates.

As a result of the election the following candidates were chosen: Board of Aldermen: Lee Ward—Marx Gunst, W. Stewart White; Common Council—W. C. Carpenter.

Dr. W. Russell Bowie Delivers Address to Large Graduating Class.

MANY PRIZES ARE AWARDED

Sutherland Medal for Oratory Is Won by Garland Redd Quarles, of Rutherford Glen.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

RANDOLPH-MACON COLLEGE, ASHLAND, Va., June 13.—Today brought to a close the Randolph-Macon College commencement. Yesterday was Alumni Day; today was essentially Seniors' Day. Graduation exercises, with award of prizes and conferring of degrees, featured the morning, and tonight was given over to class night.

Rev. W. Russell Bowie, D. D., rector of St. Paul's Church, Richmond, brought the customary greeting and challenge of the world outside to the graduates just ending their college careers and entering upon their activities. The message had the timeliness and aggressiveness of all of Dr. Bowie's public utterances. His theme was "What an Educated Man Should Be."

Clarence N. Baughman, of Prospect, W. Herman Bell, of Berryville, J. William Blincoe, of Ashland, Clyde R. Bolen, of Schoolfield, Edward G. Cox, of Odd; L. Whitney Diggs, of Hampton; David S. Garner, of Lewis-etta; Robert W. Garner, of Lewis-etta; Porter Hardy, Jr., of Bona Church; John W. Kirschoff, of Mt. Solon; William A. Linticum, of Rockville, Md.; Ernest J. Luck, of Ashland; Russell B. Lumpkin, of Farnham; Oscar W. Lushy, Jr., of Covington; William S. Mayes, of Springfield; Roy Price, of Callaway; Hayes A. Richardson, of Toano; Roland P. Riddick, of Capron; John G. Roberts, of Ashland; James J. Scott, Jr., of Radford; Arthur Price Morton, of Richmond; George L. Waters, of Glen Wilton; John Paul Tyler, of Washington.

Richmond Ministers Honored.

Honorary degrees were conferred on the following: Doctor of Laws—Rear-Admiral David Watson Taylor, chief of construction, United States Navy, one of the most distinguished alumni of the college.

Doctor of Divinity—Rev. Fred B. Chenault, pastor of Broad Street Methodist Church, Richmond, Va.; Rev. John Paul Tyler, pastor of Epworth Methodist Church, Washington; Rev. William Hedley, pastor of Ginter Park Baptist Church, Richmond.

The following prizes for the year were announced: Sutherland Medal for Oratory, Garland Redd Quarles, of Rutherford Glen, Va.; Murray Medal for Scholarship, Russell Burton Lumpkin, of Farnham, Va.; Murray Medal for Proficiency, Charles Edward Brainer, Jr., of Richmond, Va.; the Richard A. Shepard Chemistry Medal, Jesse Parks Burton, of Culpeper, Va.; the Richard V. Lancaster Medal in Biology, Maurice Albert (Continued on Page 11, Col. 1.)

You, Too, Will Love the Young, Beautiful and Vivacious Lady, Jane Parthington

"Dear friend," she said softly, "see how I trust you? I leave in your keeping the most precious few moments of my life." She grasped his hand with both of hers and brushed it lightly with her lips.

There are many tense scenes in Oppenheim's much-discussed story. As the drama unfolds, you will relive with spell-bound interest the black conspiracies of crooked politicians, the influence of a beautiful woman over man in the world of affairs, and the touching love scenes such as only the genius of Oppenheim can create.

DENIES TEUTONS ARE MAKING MERE RUBBISH

Finds Goods Reasonable and Competing With Other Makes in Quality.

CLAIM THEY WON AT JUTLAND

Defeated Nation Celebrates Alleged Victory Over Admiral Beatty.

By Viscount Northcliffe.

LONDON, June 13.—I learned a great deal more from Germans who surreptitiously came to Belgium and Holland to meet me because they were afraid they might get into trouble if seen in Germany, than I learned from the Rhinelanders themselves.

But there were many things I did find out which could only be discovered by using one's eyes.

All my German former acquaintances were alarmed at my going into Germany undisguised. However, they all said: "You're so much thinner than you were when you came to Germany early in 1914 that some of us did not recognize you and thought you were somebody else."

Some of these timorous German acquaintances thought I ought to wear a wig, or a mustache, or alter the color of my hair, especially in those towns where the medal struck by the Germans against me is being so largely sold again.

Travelled as Leonard Brown.

I laughed loudly: "Supposing the mustache falls off," I asked. "That would attract attention to Leonard Brown," the name under which I left France and passed through Belgium and Holland, into Germany and out again.

Again I replied: "The Germans are not a race of assassins. If I were hated as much in certain Latin countries as I am in Germany, I would be rather anxious. As for your brutality during the war, I think we will get on better if we don't try to explain it away."

One of them replied: "You mean thoroughness." "I mean," I said, "thoroughness." "Neh, nein," he said. "We believe the best way to end war is to make it impossible for people to live during war."

"Why, then, did you object to our blockade of Germany?" I asked.

However, it is no use discussing these things with Germans, for you do not alter their views, and they do not alter yours.

Proceeds Toward Cologne.

Meanwhile, we proceeded by a very circuitous route toward Cologne. I cannot speak of Prussia, or of Bavaria, but I can say this of the Rhineland, that it is the embodiment of peace. There were very few policemen, not enough to cope with burglaries. I was told.

Even the Rhinelanders want the Prussians back. The policemen are too gentle, and the word "corruption" has totally disappeared. But most curious of all, you never hear the tramp of armed men.

Every one who knows the old fortress of Cologne—more than 2,000 years old, and the largest in Europe—will remember that nerve-racking sound which finally made one nervous and anxious to leave. It began at dawn and often went on until midnight when "staff rides" began, after carousing that often lasted six hours.

Now Is Delightful City.

Cologne is now delightful. It is not true that in the Rhineland there is no profiteering. It is not true that the Germans in shops in the Rhineland are charging too dear for anything.

It is true that the shops are better than they ever were. It is not true that the Germans make only rubbish. There is a material here, stainless steel, which I had never heard of before, though I am told it is an English invention. Stainless steel can be bought everywhere. It is used everywhere. It looks (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.)

BISHOP CANDLER QUILTS AS EMORY CHANCELLOR

[By Associated Press.]

ATLANTA, Ga., June 13.—Bishop Warren A. Candler declined re-election as chancellor of Emory University at the annual meeting of the trustees last week, it was learned here today from officials of the institution.

Bishop Candler, who was transferred at the Hot Springs General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, from the North Georgia-Alabama, to the Louisiana-Virginia-Baltimore bishopric, stated his duties would make it impossible for him to retain the chancellorship. He was elected a member of the executive board and will remain as a trustee.

Dr. H. W. Cox, president of Emory, will assume the duties of chancellor pending selection of a successor to Bishop Candler.

Protests Boozed Sale on American Liners

[By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Attack on the Shipping Board for permitting the sale of liquor on American ships was made in the House today by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts.

Holding up what he said was a wine list from the steamship President Pierce, paid for, he added by Federal appropriation, Mr. Gallivan declared that under the Volstead law, "we can't get drunk on land, but we can at sea." There was a roar from members as the Massachusetts Representative, read from the list to show that American rye whiskey "could be bought aboard ship at 20 cents a drink, and Jamaica rum—thing of it—for two bits."

Law Class of 86 Leads in Numbers—Dr. Alderman Tells of Progress.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., June 13.—Degrees were conferred upon 261 men and nine women, the largest graduating class in the history of the University of Virginia, in the graduation exercises held this afternoon in the McIntire Amphitheater.

Class day exercises were held this morning and a final ball tonight closed the commencement season.

Governor Trinkle and President Edwin Anderson Alderman addressed the graduates after degrees had been conferred. A class gift of $15,000 in twenty-year endowment insurance policies was presented to the university by Samuel Brown Witt, Jr., of Richmond, for the 1922 graduates.

"I am about to bid good-bye to the largest graduating class in the history of the University of Virginia," said Dr. Alderman. "The total student attendance at the university forty years ago was 325. The number who graduated today, almost equals those who entered then."

"Forty years ago I sat with sixteen other youngsters and received my baccalaureate degree. Whatever else has changed, the heart of man has changed little during that period and the play of memory is about the same. I recall that the Governor of my day spoke to us. He was an old man who had known the ravages of war and defeat. He besought us that try to stay in the South, which then for broken and bruised by the wounds of war. I pass his advice on to you who are of the South, for the South still has need of her cultured and trained sons and daughters."

"The outstanding gains of the forty-year period I conceive to be greater material comfort and progress, an amazing increase of social tenderness, the extension of educational opportunity to all men and women. The losses of the period I conceive to be a temporary diminution in intellectual sturdiness and vigor in the individual, a decrease in interest in the work of one's hands, a lack of respect for (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1.)

R. E. HOTZE ELEVATED BY NATIONAL AD MEN

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 13.—Robert E. Hotze, Jr., president of the Richmond Advertising Club, was this evening elected a member of the executive council of the National Advertisers' Association, and W. W. Douglas, vice-president of the Bank of Italy, San Francisco, Cal., was elected president.

R. E. Hotze, Jr., is a member of the staff of the National Bank of Richmond, being in charge of the bank's advertising and new business department. He has been prominently identified with the Richmond Chapter of the Institute of Banking, and is active in civic affairs. His election as a member of the executive committee of the National Advertisers' Association was brought about by a movement started several weeks ago by his friends throughout the South, who felt that Richmond should have the distinction of having a member on that important committee.

FATHER SEARCHES FOR KIDNAPED CHILDREN

[By Associated Press.]

DANVILLE, Va., June 13.—Horner Burt, of Edenton, Ga., was reported today at Leesville, N. C., on his way North looking for his two children, a boy and a girl, who are reported to have been kidnaped from his home.

Burt's story, according to advices received here, is that the children were on the public road, near his home, when they were overtaken by an automobile, one of the occupants forcing both children to enter it, after which the machine put on speed and drove away. This was some weeks ago, and nothing has been heard from the children since.

LABOR CONVENTION FLAYS SHIP SUBSIDY BILL AS INIMICAL

Administration Expected to Be Object of Numerous Criticisms in Cincinnati Gathering.

[By Associated Press.]

CINCINNATI, OHIO, June 13.—Unqualified condemnation of the ship subsidy bill was voted unanimously today by the delegates at the American Federation of Labor convention, almost simultaneously with President Harding's dispatch of a letter asking Congress to pass the measure under threat of an extra session. The convention also voted to send a protest against passage of the bill to Senate and House leaders.

"Opposition to Nation's Hopes." The bill was termed by the resolution adopted by the convention as a "cunningly devised scheme to enrich certain classes of so-called American ship owners at the expense of the truly American taxpayer, and also to provide patronage which is certain to be used for purely political purposes."

The resolution concluded with the statement that the bill was "condemned as inimical to the public interest, and particularly destructive to the nation's hopes for sea power."

The action by the delegates was their first attack on the Harding administration, which it was indicated by the federation's executive council report would be the brunt of other attacks during the two weeks' convention.

Fight On for Executive Council.

Interest also centered in the first movement for a contest of membership on the federation's executive council. Joseph A. Franklin, president of the Boilermakers' Union, announced his candidacy for treasurer, opposing Daniel Tobin, president of the Teamsters' Union, who is a candidate for re-election.

Mr. Franklin's announcement came after a meeting of the chiefs of eleven rail unions, which control almost one-third of the convention vote, and the candidacy of Mr. Franklin was regarded as a movement to give the rail organizations a representative on the council. No claim of strength was made by Mr. Franklin, but he and his friends began a campaign that will end on the last day of the convention, almost a fortnight away.

SWANSON SUPPORTS TOWNER-STERLING EDUCATION BILL

Sees in Measure No Interference With Schools of State.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Senator Claude Swanson, of Virginia, today announced that he intended to support the Towner-Sterling bill for creation of a department of education with an additional Cabinet officer at the head, the eleventh Cabinet member to be known as the Secretary of Education.

Senator Swanson said he had just examined the provisions of the bill and was satisfied that education warranted a special government department devoted to its promotion.

"The bill," said Senator Swanson, "provides that the Federal government shall co-operate with the various States for educational purposes, and along many lines where such aid is needed. This would enable many States now heavily taxed for educational purposes to get educational advantages and facilities without increase of taxation."

"Under provisions of the bill the State authorities will be absolutely in control of the schools without interference or suggestion from the Federal government. I would not vote for any system that permitted the Federal government to control directly or indirectly the school system of my State, and would insist that there shall continue to be no Federal interference with school matters in the States."

"There are certain slight amendments which I think would improve the Towner-Sterling bill but they do not materially affect it. Considering the measure as now introduced, and guarding the rights of the State clearly and distinctly, I shall give the bill my support."

May Wear Civilian Clothes.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Army officers not on duty with troops or only technically assigned to troop commands are authorized in an order issued today by the War Department and effective Thursday, to wear civilian clothes while on duty. The immediate effect of the order will be to take practically all officers on duty in Washington out of uniform and to restore the pre-war regulations with respect to wearing the uniform.

Seek $1,650,000 for Manassas Memorial

[By Associated Press.]

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The campaign to raise $1,650,000 for the creation of a memorial park on the site of the first and second battles of Manassas was formally opened today when the committee having the matter in charge met here and organized teams to work in sixteen States.

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and Judge John Barton Payne, former Secretary of the Interior, headed the list of contributors with donations of $1,000 each.

While essentially a Southern memorial, the park will include monuments to "the brave, dead and wounded of both sides," according to the prospectus.

ARREST 4 MORE IN ATTACK ON PASTOR

C. E. Via Held for Grand Jury After Preliminary Hearing in Louisa.

BAIL OTHERS ACCUSED

Glenn Says Bootleggers Trying to Force Him to Leave County.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

LOUISA, Va., June 13.—The holding of C. E. Via for the grand jury and the arrest of four other men on the strength of testimony given by Rev. J. R. Glenn, Christian pastor here, are the latest developments in the attack on the home of the pastor Saturday night.

Via was given a preliminary hearing this afternoon on the charge of attempted murder before Magistrate G. D. M. Hunter and C. D. Tillison, his bail bond being fixed at $2,000. Immediately after the hearing warrants were served on W. S. Goodwin, a merchant; G. Stillwell, laborer; Booker Parrish, lumberman, of Goodland County, and R. E. Doland, of Mineral, mine owner. They were bailed under bonds of $2,000 each for appearance for preliminary hearing.

Try Buckley Today.

Herbert Buckley, who was tarred and feathered by unidentified persons the night previous to the attack on the home of the minister, will be given a hearing tomorrow on a warrant charging him with being implicated in the affair at the home of Mr. Glenn. All of the defendants are being represented by R. L. Gordon, Jr., of Louisa, while the prosecution is in the hands of Commonwealth's Attorney W. C. Bibb. There have been no arrests as yet as a result of the tarring and feathering of Buckley, though friends of the latter intimate that developments along this line may be expected shortly.

Preacher Identifies Via.

Via was identified by Glenn as one of the men in the party which raided his home with shot Saturday night. Via did not take the stand. The minister expressed to the court the opinion that "rum-runners" were at the bottom of the attack on his home, and said that bootleggers in the county were determined to force him to leave Louisa because of his activity in endeavoring to break up illicit distilling in the county.

Mr. Glenn indicated very clearly to the court the attack on his home during which members of his family were forced to hide under beds to escape injury, would in no way deter him in his crusade against illicit distilling in the county. He said he would not be "run out of the county by bootleggers."

Mr. Glenn appeared to stand well in the county, and the attack on his home has aroused the natives to a pitch of excitement that for a time boded trouble. Friends of the minister have been staying at the home since the attack.

First Entering Wedge.

Mr. Glenn asserted that the Hocking Valley field has never been united, and that he now understands all but two or three of the Hocking Valley producers were ready to come into a four-State conference with the miners on a tonnage basis. He said that from accounts it appeared that the Southern Ohio Coal Exchange is opposed to a four-State conference of miners and operators.

"If we can get such a conference as is contemplated it will mean the first entering wedge in a break-up of the coal strike," Mr. Glenn stated. "The miners have always held out for an agreement in the central conference."
